IN THE INDIAN SERVICE

Contributed by Mrs. Ida Kennings, Detroit, Michigan

Not all the soldiers of 1861-65 served in Mississippi, Tennessee or Virginia. A number of the volunteer regiments had to be kept on duty out on the frontiers where the Indians, made bold by the lack of garrisons at the frontier posts, began attacking the settlers. John Jackson Worley was such a soldier and he wrote of his experience to his brother Jesse at Pekin, Illinois on October 17, 1863.

"Dear Brother:

"Today finds us reasonably well, except the two youngest children have whooping cough pretty bad. It is all through the town pretty much and the country. There have been quite a number of deaths since I left home last spring to the present time. Phil Sheffer died the other day. I was with him two or three days up to the time of his death. I have been home now 11 days. I came from Fort Randall, head of the command by water with a fleet of Indian canoes and skiffs. A part of the command arrived at Omaha last week. I left the command at Randall to come by land. The balance will be there tomorrow. We will be paid off and discharged Tuesday or Wednesday. I think our nine months expired the 13th of Sept.

"At that time we were a long ways from home and above St. Pierre in the Indian Country. Our Command had quite a battle with several bands of Sioux on the evening of Sept. 13th, 200 miles near Long Lake and Devil's Lake, within one and a half days march of the latter. The battlefield is so named. I will give you a graphic account of the battle as I witnessed and participated in it.

"The day of the 3rd we had seen some pretty fresh signs of Indians and had marched 25 miles and had camped for the day; three of our companies of the Iowa 6th had been sent scouting with some of our half breed Indians in search of the enemy. After we had unsaddled our horses and were eating our supper, our guides came dashing into camp with their horses very near run down and announced the discovery of a large encampment of the enemy.

"The sun was one fourth of an hour high and we had some twelve miles to go. We saddled our horses and off we dashed over a desolate rocky country, leaving four companies to guard our train. You should have heard General Sully rip and snort at the Iowa 6th. They were rather slow in getting started. When we were mounted and the bugle sounded to march, General Sully swore in tones of thunder, 'that the Nebraska 2nd could saddle and ride to hell and back before the Sixth could get started.'

"Directly we got started, it seemed our horses became excited and full of life and all of the brigade horses, some of the mules were loose and some tied out grassing. When we started, they all started at full speed after us, and we went pell mell together to the battlefield in the distance near a half mile from our lines, which were formed on a hollow square. Our interpreters went in among the Indians and wanted them to give themselves up, but they would not and opened fire on the Iowa 6th. The sun then went down. They told our interpreters that if we did not want our soldiers killed we had better get away. After they had opened the ball, we poured into their midst, such a volley of fire as they little thought of. We kept up until after dark. Our regiment and the Iowa 6th on the other, so you can see that the space between us was narrow. It became so dark that there was great danger of firing on each other so our bugles sounded to fall back, and we did so one mile and laid on our arms all night.

"The General and artillery kept up their positions until next morning when we marched on the field. There were many who got away and were not captured. Some 200 of them gave themselves up as prisoners. We could not tell until morning what we had done. The sight was hard to behold. Both Indians, men, women, children and soldiers and horses were strewn over the field and piled up one on another. Their property lay strewn over six or seven miles and they must have had six hundred dogs packed with their robes and trinkets. The day was spent in burying our dead and shooting their dogs and wounded Indians and capturing ponies and plunder.

"They had laid in a large supply of dried buffalo meat of the choicest kinds. We loaded some 200,000 pounds into the brigade wagons and hauled it away and burned as much more, and all manner of property we did not want or could not take.

"General Sully had been in so many Indian Battles under General Harney at Ash Hollow, and he declares it was the most destructive battle he had ever seen or heard of in such a short time.

"Our losses were not many. Some 28 or 30 men killed and some fifteen or twenty wounded. The Indian losses were estimated by prisoners we took, to 600 killed or taken prisoners. If we could have had sufficient supplies, we could have cleaned out the whole country of Indians. The Missouri River was so low that the boats could not get up with many supplies and we had to come back against our wishes.

"When we saw how the Indians had maimed and scalped our wounded that night - cut out and split their tongues and pulled out their eyes and every other barbarities known only to them. Those of the wounded fared similarly by our soldiers the next morning, they became so enraged by their cruelties.

"The prisoners were left at Fort Randall, there to be dealt with similarly, I hope. I want you to write me on receipt of this letter and let me know what you are about, and if you have heard from Dick. I must close as dinner is ready. I will write you again after I am mustered out of service.

Yours truly,

J. J. Worley"

About three months later John J. Worley, wrote again to his brother, Jesse at Pekin.

Mr. J. P. Worley:

"As I have not heard from you for sometime, I thought I would write you a few lines. We are well except bad colds. The children have been bad off for the last few days but are now getting better. I got permission to come home last Wednesday. We are quartered in the Capitol Building in Omaha, Nebraska Territory. I will have to return tomorrow or the next day. Previous to our going to the Capitol Bldg. we were quartered one and one half miles west in the timber. We fare well in our new quarters. We will leave here in spring for the Northwest, on an Indian Campaign. We will go up to the mouth of the Yellowstone, I expect, and then will introduce ourselves to the first yellowskins that fall in our way in a hostile attitude.

"I want you to write me if you have heard anything from Dick since he had his leg amputated.

"We have quite an open winter so far, although today is squally. The Missouri River is still open here and the ferry boat is running. I believe I have no more from here now. We get news two or three times daily. We have a telegraph office here now. I want you to write me immediately. Direct me to Co. H., Omaha.

Yours in haste,

J. J. Worley"

WILLIAM SUTPHIN OF MIDDLESEX AND SOMERSET COUNTIES, NEW JERSEY AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS

Compiled by Gerry Sutphin Harris, Battle Creek, Mich.

14. WILLIAM HARVEY⁶ SUTPHIN (John⁵, John⁴, William³, Jacob², Dirck¹), was born Springfield Twp., Oakland Co., Mich., 22 Dec. 1842; d. Oakland Co., Mich., 12 Dec. 1924; m. (1), 25 Feb. 1874, Josephine Carl who d. 8 Mar. 1893. William, m. (2), 25 Mar. 1902, Mary Mason from Wayne County, New York. There were no children of the second marriage. William Sutphin was buried in the New Haven Cemetery, New Haven, Michigan.

As a young boy, he lived with his parents on an 160 acre farm located near Big Lake in a rugged, thickly wooded section of Oakland County. At the age of 12 years, he became an orphan when his father died, 7 Nov. 1854. His mother had died two years previously in March 1853. William and his brothers and sisters went to live with their uncle, James Stout, who was named Guardian, 30 June 1855, by the probate judge of Oakland County. Around 1857, probably after the death of his guardian, James Stout, William was living in New Haven, Macomb Co., Michigan and in 1860 he was with the William Green Carl family. Josephine Carl, who later became William's wife, was also living in the same household with her uncle, William Carl.

When the Civil War broke out, William Harvey Sutphin, like his grandfather in the Revolution, answered the call to defend his country. John Sutphin, Sr. had fought to gain independence for the United Colonies and William rallied behind the cause of preserving the Union. He enlisted in Company F, Twenty-second Regiment, Michigan Volunteer Infantry on the 14 Aug. 1862 and was mustered into the federal service on 22 Aug. 1862 at Pontiac, Michigan. After a hurried organization of the 22nd Regiment, in the months of July and August, the regiment under the command of Ex-Governor Moses Wisner was ordered to depart for the war zone. William Sutphin, then 19 years of age, like the rest of the hastily recruited civilians of the regiment was given little training in military discipline and tactics prior to his departure. Carrying his newly issued Austrian rifle, he boarded a troop train at Pontiac on 4 Sept. 1862 and traveled to Detroit. Here he went aboard a lake steamer with the regiment and proceeded to Cleveland and from there to Cincinnati, Ohio by rail, arriving there on the 6th of September.

William Sutphin crossed the Ohio River with the 22nd Regiment and for the first time entered country which was being subjected to attacks by the Confederate marauders. He and the rest of his comrades must have felt uneasy, since they had rifles but no ammunition. After a couple of hours of badly needed rest on the streets of Covington, Kentucky, the 22nd was ordered to march out of town on the Lexington Road and traveled the dusty road for a mile or two before halting in a shaded area to await the needed ammunition. Colonel Wisner who had been to headquarters to procure the ammunition rode back to his troops in a hurry after having discovered the presence of hostile forces in the immediate area. On sighting his green troops casually sprawled out in restful slumber, his booming voice bellowed the shocking words, "To Arms! To Arms! The enemy is upon us." The momentary confusion which resulted must have been extremely frantic, with young soldiers dashing helter skelter to recover their equipment, and with the realization that they had no ammunition to defend themselves against an enemy attack.

The regiment was quickly put back into order and William Sutphin found himself in battle formation with an empty rifle and a glistening bayonet, awaiting the momentary onslaught of General Kirby Smith's Confederate Raiders. It was reported that the regiment had been arranged along the ridge of a farmer's cabbage patch, and although a battle never took place, it was referred to as "The Cabbage Hill Fight."

For the next ten to twelve days, William Sutphin, with the regiment were employed in digging trenches and erecting fortifications around the Covington area, in anticipation of an attack by General Smith and his forces. When the battle never materialized, the 22nd Michigan, together with the 18th Michigan, were ordered to proceed to Lexington. Ammunition had finally arrived and it was a much relieved force which set out on the march to Lexington.

While on this march, about the 15th of October, William Sutphin incurred an injury which hospitalized him until the 30 June 1863. From this date until the 5th of September he was present with the men of the 22nd who were guarding the railroad at Nashville and vicinity. At this time, he became ill and was a patient at the military hospital at Nashville until 29 Feb. 1864. On 10 April 1864, he was re-assigned to Company H, 11th Regiment, Veterans Reserve Corps. At this time, he was engaged in guard, fatigue, and other special duties until June 1865. The regiment then proceeded to Albany, New York where William was honorably discharged on 29 June 1865. He then returned to his home in New Haven, Michigan.

William was never again able to do heavy manual labor and this must have been a great handicap in his occupation which was farming. The Michigan Gazetteer of 1899 listed an additional occupation as "thresher". He was affiliated fraternally with the International Order of Odd Fellows and was also an active member of the G. A. R. His daughter, Bessie, recalls the Decoration Day Parades in New Haven, when her father and the Civil War veterans of the town joined the procession. This was always one of the big events and included all of the residents for miles around. With the band playing up ahead, the veterans of New Haven, dressed in their uniform coats and campaign hats, would lead the procession to the cemetery to pay their respects to their fallen comrades and to decorate the graves.

It is appropriate to mention, that although William Sutphin did not participate in the terrible conflict at Chickamauga, he was as much a victim of the tragedy of war, as those fellow comrades who were seriously wounded, or died in the raging battle, or who were made prisoners. Thousands of Civil War soldiers fell in sickness and death from the ravages of disease and injury, and history reveals that the number of men who were incapacitated or died from sickness far exceeded those who fell in battle. William Sutphin served his country honorably and faithfully as a soldier and bore the effects of his painful injury for the rest of his days.

THE MILLARDS OF REHOBOTH, MASSACHUSETTS

By Frances Davis McTeer of Detroit, Mich. and Frederick C. Warner of North Amherst, Mass.

39. THOMAS (5) MILLARD (Robert-4, Robert-3, Robert-2, John-1), b. at Dighton, Mass., 9 July 1736, d. in Providence, R.I. in September 1805 "age about 80 years"; m. at South Kingston, R.I., 16 Dec. 1756, MERCY TEFFT, b. there 24 April 1735, living in Providence in 1810, daughter of Samuel and Mary (Barber) Tefft. (Vital Records of Rhode Island, Vol. 14, p. 109; Descendants of John Tefft of Portsmouth, R.I., 1904, by Rev. C.H.W. Stocking, p. 12)

Thomas Millard was a wheelwright and later a mariner; he lived first in Dighton, in North Kingston and then in Providence, R.I.

On 12 Nov. 1754 John Reed of Dighton deeded to Thomas Millard of Dighton, wheelwright, the 5th lot in the Upper Division of Dighton; and on 2 Oct. 1760 Thomas Millard of Dighton, mariner, sold to Abiezer Phillips of Dighton, cordwainer, part of a Square lot in the Upper Division of Dighton. Acknowledged at Berkley, Mass. on 10 Jan. 1766. On 21 Jan. 1793 Thomas Miller of Providence, R.I. sold to Philip Slade of Somerset, two acres in Somerset (formerly a part of Dighton). Acknowledged at Somerset on the same date. (Bristol Co., Mass. Deeds, Vol. 41, p. 546; Vol. 50, p. 340; Vol. 71, p. 613)

On 4 Jan. 1775 Thomas Millard came to Providence "without legal right, saith he hath a freehold estate in Dighton which was his last place of residence and the only place to which he belongs; he, wife, and four children are therefore ordered out of town." (Records of the Town Council of Providence, R.I., Vol. 5, p. 14, from Peirce)

Consideration of the census records leaves little, if any, doubt that Thomas had more children than these three recorded at Dighton. In 1774 in North Kingston, Thomas Miller had a household of one male over 16 years, one under, two females over 16, and two under. Two years later Thomas was in Providence, with two males over 16, two under, two females over 16, three under; three children more than in 1774. In 1782 Thomas and his wife, both over 50, had in their Providence household three females 16-22 years, two boys and one girl under 16 years; allowing for Thomas Jr. and Mary having already left their father's roof, there is now one more daughter since 1776.

In 1790 Thomas had a household of three males over 16, one under, and three females. In 1800 he and his wife, over 45 years, are shown with one male and four females 26-45 years; and in 1810 the widow Mercy Miller was still living in Providence with one female besides herself over 45 years, three females 26-45, and a boy 16-26 years.

Providence records contain no estate settlement for Thomas Miller.

Thomas Millard and Mercy Tefft had three known children, born at Dighton, Mass.:

- i. Mary, b. 10 Jan. 1758.
- ii. Thomas, b. 3 July 1759.
- iii. Patience, b. 20 Dec. 1762.

40. BENJAMIN (5) MILLER (Benjamin-4, Robert-3, Robert-2, John-1), b. at Swansea, Mass., 21 Sept. 1731, d. at Warren, R.I. in 1774; m. there 10 Jan. 1751, HOPE COLE, b. at Swansea in 1733, d. at Providence, R.I. in February 1787, daughter of Benjamin and Hope (Nelson) Cole. (Vital Records of Rhode Island, Vol. 14, p. 108; Descendants of James Cole of Plymouth, 1908, by E. B. Cole, p. 71; Mayflower Index #8, 127)

Benjamin Miller was a blacksmith at Warren, R.I.; on 15 Feb. 1765, when he and his brothers James and Robert made a division of the property inherited from their father, Benjamin's share was ten acres including the "dwelling house in Warren where Benjamin now liveth." (Warren, R.I. Deeds, Vol. 2, p. 130). On 2 Nov. 1764 Benjamin joined with his neighbors in the purchase of land in Warren for the erection of a schoolhouse, but on 4 Nov. 1769 he and his brother-in-law William Arnold sold their "3/20 parts of a schoolhouse in Warren" to Ephraim Cole. (Ibid, Vol. 2, pp. 352, 93)

Shortly thereafter, on 15 Nov. 1769, Benjamin and Hope Miller "of the County of Bristol" sold to James Miller (#41) of Warren one fourth acre in Warren "given me by my honored father Benjamin Miller of Warren deceased." (Ibid., Vol. 2, p. 395) Benjamin's acknowledgment to this deed on 21 Jan. 1774 is his last appearance in the public records of Warren. The Rhode Island State Census of 1774 lists Hope Miller living in Warren as the head of a family including, besides her self, two boys and two girls under 16 years.

The activities and residences of Benjamin's widow and her children after 1774 have long been the subject of conjecture. The Cole genealogy reports that Hope died on 9 Nov. 1810, but no location or reference is given for this event. On the other hand, the Providence Gazette of 17 Feb. 1787 carries a death notice of "Mrs. Miller, widow, late of Warren", and no other Miller widow has been found to fit this listing. Moreover, the death certificate of Elisha Wing, who died in Ashfield, Mass. on 17 Nov. 1869, aged 87 years 2 months 10 days, states that his mother Elizabeth (#40 i.) was born "in Providence, R.I."; clearly Hope Miller's great-grandchildren (the informants of 1869) understood her residence as Providence though they may have been inaccurate as to the time she moved there. (Massachusetts Vital Records)

In addition Cole reports that Elizabeth Miller married "Mr. Niles of Conway, Mass.", while her sister Patience married "Mr. Wing of Ashfield." Very evidently this listing gives Mr. Wing the wrong wife. The Warren Vital Records clearly state that Edward Wing was married there on 7 Aug. 1774 to Elizabeth Miller; and the town history of Goshen, Mass. states that Capt. Edward Wing and wife Elizabeth "from Warren" were the parents of eight children born in Goshen between 1778 and 1792. (History of the Town of Goshen, Mass., 1881, by Hiram Barrus, p. 192) The will of Edward Wing of Goshen, dated 7 Oct. 1812, names his wife Elizabeth and lists these same children, among others. (Hampshire Co., Mass. Probates, Vol. 29, p. 199) After her husband's death, the widow Elizabeth Wing went to live in the household of her daughter Rebecca Clark in Ashfield, Mass., where "Mrs. Elizabeth Wing" died in 1839 at an age which is in reasonable agreement with her birthdate as Elizabeth Miller of Warren, R.I. Thus there seems no reason to doubt that Benjamin and Hope Miller's daughter Elizabeth actually married Edward Wing and lived successively in Warren, Conway, Goshen and Ashfield. On the other hand, the given name of the Miller girl who was the bride of "Mr. Niles" continues to remain a question since a search of records in both Conway and Ashfield yields no man of that name who was an early resident of either town.

The data given hereafter for Hope Miller Jr. and for her brother Benjamin are based on a careful consideration of the vital statistics abstracted from early Providence newspapers. (Vital Records of Rhode Island, Vols. 13 through 21) The statements are reasonable and probably true, but they cannot be tied to this Miller family by either deeds or probates.

In the aggregate these various records lead one to infer that the widow Hope Miller moved to Providence not long after her husband's death, probably between 1777 and 1782. Which or how many of her children accompanied her poses a difficult question. Hope Jr. must have come to Providence almost immediately, or possibly even before her father died. She joined the First Baptist Church there on 22 Jan. 1775 and was identified as "of Providence" when she married in December 1777. (Historical Catalogue of the Members of the First Baptist Church in Providence, R.I., 1908, by Henry Melville King, p. 25) Between April and September 1777 Elizabeth and her husband Capt. Edward Wing moved from Warren to Conway, Mass. Nelson and James Miller were listed in the April 1777 military census of Warren; the latter as "James Miller 2nd" in deference to his uncle James #41. Both boys served with the Rhode Island troops during the Revolution; then Nelson moved to Bristol, R.I.; and James went to Williamsburg and thence to Hatfield, Mass. before the end of the war. Sally Miller was in Hampshire County before December 1787, and quite possibly Rebecca and Patience came there also, but these three may have gone to Providence first and then moved on after the death of their mother.

Benjamin Miller and Hope Cole had eleven children, the first four recorded at Warren, R.I.:

1. Elizabeth (twin), b. 18 June 1753, d. in Ashfield, Mass., 2 Sept. 1839 aged 85 yrs.; m. at Warren, 7 Aug. 1774, Edward Wing, b. 11 Oct. 1735, d. at Goshen, Mass., 7

- Feb. 1814, son of Samuel and Marcy (Wing) Wing. Eleven children, eight recorded at Goshen. (Barrus, op. cit., loc. cit.) In April 1777 Edward Wing was listed in the military census of Warren, R.I., but on 19 Sept. 1777 Thomas and Lucy Spafford of Northampton, Mass. sold to Edward Wing of Conway, part of Lot No. 1 in Conway, 15 acres bounded by Chesterfield Gore. (Hampshire Co., Mass. Deeds, Vol. 3, p. 589) The will of Edward Wing of Goshen, dated 7 Oct. 1812, probated 7 Mar. 1815, bequeathed to son Samuel all real estate in Goshen, he to care for Edward and wife Elizabeth for the rest of their lives; one dollar each to five other sons, Edward, Nelson, Elisha, Isaac and Benjamin; to daughter Rebeckah Clark; and to three other daughters, Elizabeth, Sally and Mehitable, they to have rights in the house and household goods after the death of their mother. (Hampshire Co., Mass. Probates, Vol. 29, p. 199)
- ii. Mehitable (twin), b. 18 June 1753. No further record.

Five children. Nelson Miller then of Warren enlisted in May 1775 for service in the Revolution as a drummer for eight months under Capt. Martindale in Col. Thomas Church's Reg't; he reenlisted in January 1776 for twelve months as drum major under Col. Henry Babcock and Capt. Loring Peck. He again enlisted in January 1777 for fifteen months as drum major under Col. Crary and Capt. Caleb Carr; during this time he served at White Plains, Trenton, Princeton and Valley Forge. (Representative Men and Old Families of Rhode Island, 1908, Vol. 2, p. 1357; Vital Records of Rhode Island, Vol. 12, p. 348; Revolutionary Pension Application S 21 378)
 - iv. Hope, b. 25 Nov. 1757, d. at Providence, R.I., 28 Oct. 1787; m. there in December 1777, John P. Jones, merchant. No known children. (Ibid., Vol. 13, p. 537; Vol. 15, p. 171; Vol. 7, p. 352) On 27 Jan. 1779 John Pearce Jones, merchant, and wife Hope of Killingly, Conn. conveyed to Thomas Jones of Killingly, merchant, one half part of a house and other buildings in Providence. (Providence, R.I. Deeds, Vol. 19, p. 325)
 - v. James, d. at Hatfield, Mass., 14 Oct. 1788; m. at Williamsburg, Mass., 22 May 1783, Asenath Strong, b. at Colchester, Conn., 3 Aug. 1760, d. at Plainfield, Mass., 10 Jan. 1855, dau. of Ezra and Temperance (Phelps) Strong. She m.(2) 9 June 1796, James Claghorn of Martha's Vineyard, who d. in Cummington, Mass., 1 Aug. 1810. (The History of the Descendants of Elder John Strong of Northampton, 1871, by Benjamin W. Dwight, p. 860) She m.(3) in 1820 John Campbell, who d. in Plainfield 25 Apr. 1833. On 14 Oct. 1785 Noah Nash of Hatfield sold to James Miller of Hatfield, blacksmith, ten square rods of "my homelot" in Hatfield. (Hampshire Co., Mass. Deeds, Vol. 9, p. 361) On 13 Nov. 1788 Asenath Miller of Hatfield was named administratrix of the estate of James Miller late of Hatfield deceased; inventory included a dwelling house, ten rods of land, a small barn, and a blacksmith shop. On 6 Jan. 1789 Asenath Miller was named guardian of Benjamin William Miller aged 4 yrs.; Asenath Miller aged 3 yrs.; Hope Miller aged one yr., children of James Miller late of Hatfield deceased. (Hampshire Co., Mass. Probates, Vol. 15, p. 462; Vol. 16, pp. 3, 8) On 21 Oct. 1845 when Mrs. Asenath Campbell aged 85 years applied for a Revolutionary pension, Nelson Miller of Bristol, R.I., near 84 years, deposed that his brother James Miller (Mrs. Campbell's first husband) lived in Warren, R.I. during his early years, then removed to Williamsburg, Mass. During the Revolution Nelson was a drum major and James a fifer for fifteen months before March 1778 in Capt. Caleb Carr's Co., Col. Archibald Crary's Reg't. Later James served in Col. Elliott's Rhode Island Reg't. (Revolutionary Pension Application W 15 634; Vital Records of Rhode Island, Vol. 12, pp. 214-5)
 - vi. Benjamin, d. in Providence in December 1788; m. there 14 Nov. 1784, Mary Sanders. (Ibid., Vol. 14, p. 108; Vol. 10, p. 214)

 - viii. Rebecca, probably m. "Mr. Wood of Allegheny Co., N.Y." (Cole)
 - ix. Mary. No further record.
 - x. Robert. No further record.
 - xi. Patience, possibly m. "Mr. Niles." (See discussion above.)

41. JAMES (5) MILLER (Benjamin-4, Robert-3, Robert-2, John-1), b. at Warren, R.I., 20 Oct. 1733, d. 10 Nov. 1819 aged 87 years, bur. Kickimuit Cemetery at Warren, R.I.; m. (1) MARY, who d. of smallpox 19 Jan. 1761 in her 25th year. He m. (2) at Warren, 3 Dec. 1761, Mrs. ANNA HALIE, who d. there 30 April 1786 in her 52nd year, bur. Kickimuit Cemetery. He m. (3) as her second husband, ELIZABETH (SHERMAN) MILLER, b. at Swansea, Mass., 19 March 1746, d. at Bristol, R.I., 17 July 1830 in her 85th year, daughter of Richard and Lydia (Wilbore) Sherman and widow of Job Miller (#35 i., q.v.)

In the final division of their father's property, on 15 Feb. 1766, Benjamin and Robert Miller of Warren, blacksmiths, quitclaimed to their brother James Miller of Warren, blacksmith, rights in 12 acres in Swansea and Warren "which their father Benjamin Miller purchased of Caleb Eddy", also seven acres and five acres purchased from Capt. John Eastebrooke, and two acres, all located in Warren. (Warren, R.I. Deeds, Vol. 2, p. 131)

In 1760 James Miller was listed as a freeman of Warren, where he continued to live throughout his life. (Vital Records of Rhode Island, Vol. 6, p. 248) During the Revolution he was a member of the Alarm Company of Bristol Co., R.I. and of Capt. Robert Carr's Co., General Miller's Brigade in 1778 and 1780; in September 1777 he was among those drafted from Warren to serve for one month under Major-General Spencer. (The History of Warren, R.I. in the War of the Revolution, 1901, by Virginia Baker, pp. 41, 43, 44)

On 7 Feb. 1820 Caleb Carr (the widow's son-in-law; see #35 i.) was appointed administrator of the estate of James Miller, late of Warren deceased. On 8 March 1820 and again on 7 May 1821 allowances were made to the widow Elizabeth Miller. No other heirs are mentioned. (Warren, R.I. Probates, Vol. 2, pp. 111, 113, 132)

James Miller and his first wife Mary had three daughters, born at Warren, R.I.:

- i. Luraine, b. 22 May 1754; m. in Swansea, 13 Dec. 1772, Elisha Wood.
- ii. Patience, b. 21 Dec. 1756.
- iii. Barbara, b. 22 Apr. 1759, d. at Warren, 13 Jan. 1761 in her 2nd yr., bur. Kickimuit.

James Miller and his third wife, Elizabeth Sherman, had one son:

- iv. Benjamin, b. 24 Nov. 1791, d. 11 Feb. 1801 in his 11th yr., bur. Kickimuit Cemetery.

42. ROBERT (5) MILLER (Benjamin-4, Robert-3, Robert-2, John-1), b. at Warren, R.I., 1 March 1742/3; m. REBECCA Both were living in Little Compton, R.I. on 1 Jan. 1796.

On 15 Feb. 1766 as part of the final disposition of their father's estate, Benjamin and James Miller of Warren, blacksmiths, deeded their rights in 16 acres in Warren to their brother, Robert Miller of Warren, blacksmith. (Warren, R.I. Deeds, Vol. 2, p. 132)

On 6 June 1769 Robert Miller of Warren, blacksmith, and wife Rebecca conveyed to Samuel Pierce of Warren, house carpenter, one half of 16 acres in Warren, viz. a part of the "Homestead Farm of my Honored Father Benjamin Miller late of Warren deceased", given by will and since his death by deed of division between my brothers Benjamin and James Miller. On 21 May 1770 Robert and Rebeckah Miller of Warren deeded to Samuel Pierce of Warren, gentleman, the whole of these 16 acres, excepting only the widow's right of dower in the premises during her natural life and after that all of Robert's rights in her dower. Acknowledged at Little Compton, R.I. on 4 June 1770 by both. (Ibid., Vol. 2, pp. 249, 293)

After he left Warren in 1769-1770, Robert Miller owned and operated a blacksmith shop located in the southeast corner of the Common at Little Compton, R.I.

On 23 Aug. 1778 Robert Miller of Little Compton, blacksmith, bought from William and Parnal Church, 18 square rods of land in Little Compton; and on 1 Jan. 1796 he bought from William Church an additional quarter acre at Little Compton Common. On 6 Jan. 1793 Robert bought of Gamaliel Tompkins one half of a pew in the Congregational Meeting House at Little Compton. (Little Compton, R.I. Deeds, Vol. 3, pp. 202, 582, 509)

The last record of Robert in Little Compton is a deed of 1 Jan. 1796 by which Robert Miller, blacksmith, and wife Rebecca sold for $500 to William Pearce of Little Compton, blacksmith, one half acre of land with dwelling house, shop and other buildings, located in the southeast corner of the Common. Acknowledged the same day by both. (Ibid., Vol. 3, p. 586) Obviously this transaction marks the end of Robert's blacksmithing career in Little Compton. Perhaps he moved (though there is no record that he sold the church pew); or perhaps (for some unknown reason) he chose to retire. There are no more deeds, no probate and no vital records of this family in Little Compton.

The Rhode Island State Census of Little Compton in 1774 lists Robert Miller with a household of two persons, himself and his wife; the 1790 census lists a household of three, one male and two females over 16 years (one might have been "help"). There is no Miller family shown in the 1800 census schedule for Little Compton. Apparently Robert and Rebecca had no children, and they either moved to parts unknown or died between 1796 and 1800.

[NOTE: Numbers 43-49 inclusive have been reserved for the descendants of Robert-4 (Nehemiah-3, Robert-2, John-1) Millard, whose history, "The Descendants of Robert Millard of Pawling, New York" by Ruth Kline Lee, will be published herein immediately following this genealogy.]

DESCENDANTS OF OLIVER COOLEY OF MARLBOROUGH, VERMONT [An Addition to The Cooley Genealogy (1941)]

By Harriet A. Allen, Schenectady 9, New York

The descendants of Ensign Benjamin Cooley, an early settler of Springfield and Longmeadow, Massachusetts, were first written up in a handsome genealogy published in 1941, The Cooley Genealogy, by Mortimer Elwyn Cooley and others.

The following account covers descendants of Oliver⁵ Cooley, son of Abner⁴ (Simon³, Daniel², Benjamin¹) and Jerusha (Graves) Cooley, who appears as No. 295 in The Cooley Genealogy and whose family is written up on pages 538-9 therein. Including a hitherto-unmentioned son, Elijah, over 125 names of descendants and individuals related by marriage to those descendants are recorded.

1. OLIVER⁵ COOLEY was born in Sunderland, Mass. and died at New Marlboro, Vermont, on 2 May 1778, aged about 38. He married about 1765 SARAH INGRAM, daughter of Samuel and Abigail (Dickinson) Ingram, born 16 Aug. 1747 at Hadley, Mass., according to the Cooley Family Bible record. There is no notation as to her death.

Soon after the birth of their fifth child in 1775, the family moved from Sunderland, Mass. to New Marlborough, Vermont, where Oliver and Sarah were among the charter members of the First Congregational Society organized 20 Oct. 1776 and where Oliver took the freeman's oath in March of 1778.

Oliver's Revolutionary War service is noted on p. 37 of J.E. Goodrich's Revolutionary Rolls of Vermont: "Oliver Cooley in Captain Josiah Boyden's Co. in Col. Williams' Regiment of Militia in the service of the U.S. on an expedition to Bennington in 1777. Enlisted Aug. 29, discharged Sept. 22, service 25 days."

Children of Oliver and Sarah (Ingram) Cooley, born Sunderland, Mass.:

- i Enos⁶, b. 4 Oct. 1766. (See The Cooley Genealogy, pp. 605-6, for an account of his family, Enos being listed as No. 344.)
- ii Ebenezer, b. 19 Jan. 1768; no record of death. Incompetent; Daniel Cooley was appointed his guardian (Hampshire County Probate.)
- iii Jerusha, b. 21 Jan. 1770 (Bible record; The Cooley Genealogy says "4 Jan. 1770"); no record of her death. She married Simeon Smith and resided near Amherst and Hadley, Mass. One child, Oliver Cooley Smith, b. 1791; d. 1861; m. Mehitable Smith. (This information, from the Simeon Smith family Bible, was furnished by Lt. Col. Gordon C. Jones, Norfolk, Va. in 1950, a great-grandson.)

- 2 iv ELIJAH, b. 2 May 1772
- 3 v ERASTUS, b. 30 June 1775

2. ELIJAH⁶ COOLEY, son of Oliver and Sarah (Ingram) Cooley, was born 2 May 1772, probably at Sunderland, Mass. and died in Niagara County, N.Y. in 1863. The Cooley Genealogy makes no mention of this son.

He married OLIVE FULLER, born 27 Jan. 1775 and died 22 Feb. 1812 at Frankfort (now Ilion), N.Y. (Mrs. Edward S. Arnold, a descendant of their oldest daughter, states that Olive was born in Connecticut, daughter of Eliphalet and ----- Fuller. The only Eliphalet Fuller in the Barbour Index of Connecticut Vital Records was b. 22 Sept. 1749, son of Thomas⁴ and Hannah, at East Haddam, Conn., and no other record pertaining to him was found.)

Elijah probably married a second time, but there is no record.

3. ERASTUS⁶ COOLEY, son of Oliver and Sarah (Ingram) Cooley, was born 30 June 1775 (Bible record) and baptized 4 July 1775 (History of Sunderland, Mass. ()); died Norwich, Conn., 19 May 1830 and buried in Norwich Town Cemetery. He married (1) at Stonington, Conn., 3 Dec. 1797 ABIGAIL SISSON, born 11 July 1775, d. 28 Nov. 1821. "Abigail Cooley" is mentioned in the wills of her father, William Sisson, and her mother, Mercy Sisson. (Probate files #2925 and 2926 in the Connecticut State Library at Hartford.)

Erastus Cooley and SUSAN CRANDALL, "both of Norwich", were married there 22 Apr. 1824. She was born 21 July 1788 at Westerly, R.I., daughter of Arnold and Diana (Gavit) Crandall; she died 12 Sept. 1864 at Providence, R.I.

Erastus Cooley was an iron founder or moulder at Norwich.

4. ERASTUS⁷ COOLEY, "son of Erastus and Abby Cooley" according to his death certificate, was born at Stonington, Conn. in March 1798 and died at Providence, R.I. 8 Dec. 1863. He married (1) 1822 LUCY NEWTON, b. Conn. 1801, daughter of Aaron and Lucy (Bailey) Newton of Stonington; d. 24 Dec. 1872 in Potter County, Pennsylvania.

Erastus and Lucy Cooley were living in Vestal, Broome Co., N.Y., when their second and third children were born, but shortly after that, they separated. Erastus took the children back to Connecticut where they made their home for a time with his brother William. ASSESSMENT ROLL 1847 COLCHESTER TOWNSHIP, ESSEX COUNTY, ONTARIO

Contributed by David P. Botsford, Amherstburg, Ontario

This township, just across the Detroit River from the United States, had a mixed population. There were some French families and many Loyalists who had come in after the Revolution. Finally about one third of the people were Negroes. Some of these were descended from slaves that had been captured in Kentucky during Elliott's raid at the time of the Revolution. But the greater number were slaves who had escaped from the South through the Underground Railway. Already by 1847 they had come in such great numbers that the Canadian settlers had great difficulty in making provision for them. The land was mostly taken but a great deal of it had not yet been cleared. The land-holders allowed the Negroes to come in onto their land and clear a few acres, plant their own crops and help the land owner during harvest. These immigrants planted the first tobacco. The cold weather bothered them. Some found employment in stoking furnaces on the ships. After the Civil War many of them moved back across the border.

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS

JACOBS, N.P.: In "Burial Records, St. Paul's Cathedral, Detroit, Michigan" in The DSGR Magazine (December 1954) vol. XVIII, p. 51, the dates should be corrected to read May 3, 1874. Nathaniel Poole Jacobs was born at Adams, New York, 31 Oct. 1821, so he was only 53 years of age at the time of his death on 30 Apr. 1874.
-----Submitted by Charles Fey, Lathrup Village, Michigan.

GOOLD, THOMAS and GOOLD, ROY: In "Descendants of Robert Goold" in The DSGR Magazine (Spring 1960) vol. XXIII, p. 110, birthdates in the fifth and sixth lines above the last line should be corrected to read, "1. Roy, b. Huron S.D., 7 Nov. 1908...." and, 2. Thomas, b. 17 Apr. 1910...." The last word on the page should be corrected to read Luzetta.
-----Submitted by Elaine Goold Keltz, Temple City, California.

SMITH, FLORENCE E.: In "Otisville Cemetery Inscriptions, Wayne County, Mich." in The DSGR Magazine (Winter 1960) vol. XXIV, p. 76, death date should be corrected to read May 12, 1958.
-----Submitted by Louis S. White, Ypsilanti, Michigan.

JOHNSON, ALEXANDER and JOHNSON, SALLY: In "The Alexander Johnson Bible Record" in The DSGR Magazine (Spring 1961) vol. XXIV, p. 102, in the lines after "Page 2:" the statement in parenthesis should be corrected to read, "(born in Tennessee, according to the 1850 census of Benton County, Iowa)" The words in parenthesis in the third line should be corrected to read "(1850 census - Kentucky)" It should be noted that there seems to have been two Alexander Johnsons who came to Benton County, Iowa--one family from Ohio; and the one of this record. The History of Benton County, Iowa, Lewis Pub. Co., on pp. 896-897 states this couple were natives of Ohio. This is in error according to the census information. They probably came from Blount Co., Tenn., to Ind., then to Iowa.
-----Submitted by Mrs. Loren W. Remington, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

INCRPTIONS FROM AN EAST DETROIT (MICH.) CEMETERY

Copied by Mr. James J. Carey, Grosse Pointe, Mich.

St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Cemetery is located in East Detroit, Macomb County, Michigan. It was established about 1850 at the intersection of Gratiot and Nine-Mile Roads, but removed to the present neighboring site in 1930. The cemetery is "strict Lutheran" and is managed by a board of members from St. Peter's Church. Only inscriptions for persons born before 1900 are included in this list; however, the complete transcript of inscriptions copied in September 1959 has been deposited in Burton Historical Collection of Detroit Public Library, where it may be consulted.

MRS. CAMPBELL McCORMACK died at her home in Detroit on March 29, 1961, thus joining her husband in death after his own passing on Christmas morning. Both were members of the Society. Her funeral was held on her birthday, and she rests beside him in Acacia Park Cemetery.

She was formerly Lillian Evelyn Toaz. She was born April 1, 1906, a daughter of Alvin Frye Toaz and Julia O'Rilla Peck. She lived in Oklahoma and Arkansas before coming to Detroit. She was a member of Elizabeth Cass Chapter of the D.A.R., and of the Presbyterian Church. She was loyal to our Magazine, and contributed an abundance of Bible and cemetery records.

Surviving are five children: Campbell, Mrs. Delphine Merte, Robert, James and Mrs. Rilla Hannan; also 13 grandchildren, a brother and two sisters.

Mrs. McCormack was a sincere and friendly woman, with fine enthusiasms. She lived by her eager ideals, and had a wealth of inner mind. Always she was a devoted wife and mother, and a proud grandmother. She leaves abiding memories of herself and husband at the same table, with him painting boat scenes and waterscapes, and her working on the genealogy of both.

MISS MARY LANDIS HOOVER, our loyal member, passed away on February 3, 1961, at Detroit. She was born July 3, 1887, at Canton, Kansas, a daughter of Jacob S. Hoover and Martha Landis.

She was a splendid and dedicated teacher and a profound student of Bible history.

Surviving are a sister, Miss Mabel Hoover, and a brother, Walter Landis Hoover.

NOTES ON THE MALMSBURY/MALSBURY FAMILY OF NEW JERSEY

Contributed by Mr. Henry C. Shinn, Mt. Holly, N.J.

These records of the family of her maternal grandmother, Sarah Malmsbury, of Pemberton, New Jersey, were compiled about sixty years ago by Sallie (Haines) Shinn, of Mount Holly, N.J. She was born 1847, the fifth child of Austin Rogers Haines of Mount Holly and Mary Heisler of Pemberton, whose parents were Jacob and Sarah (Malmsbury) Heisler. She married 1882 Henry C. Shinn of Mount Holly, and she died in 1913. The notes are given as she compiled them.

The Malmsbury family was large and has many descendants scattered over the United States, but the original name disappeared about the beginning of the 19th century, as far as the writer has been able to discover, and was supplanted by the present form of Malsbury -- probably because the later version was easier to pronounce.

My Grandmother's grandfather was John Malmsbury, son of John and Mary Malmsbury, b. June 7, 1744, m. Rebecca Doane, dau. of John and Hannah Doane, b. April 5, 1754. Their children were:

- i Tabitha, b. November 16, 1772; m. Isaiah Reeve and had 10 children.
- ii Caleb (my grandmother's father), b. November 4, 1774.
- iii Thomerson, b. March 28, 1779; m. William Cattell and had one child.
- iv Benjamin, b. November 6, 1779, d. June 3, 1854; m. Jane _____. 11 children.
- v Rebecca, b. January 19, 1781; m. William Cattell after his wife (her sister) died. They had 9 children.
- vi John, b. July 14, 1783; d. November 4, 1833; m. Mary Grigg and had 6 children. This branch lives near Rahway, N.J.
- vii Joel, b. September 2, 1785; d. May 1822; m. Mary Welday, 2 children. Mary d. in childbirth and Joel had 4 more children by a second marriage. They compose the Trenton branch of the family.
- viii Nathan, b. June 23, 1788; d. November 1879; m. Eliza _____ and had 8 children.
- ix Rachel, b. October 20, 1790; d. May 28, 1885, in her 95th year; m. Joseph Larison. They had 10 children.
- x Elizabeth, b. July 15, 1794; m. Jonathan Rakestraw and had 7 children. The youngest daughter, Hannah, m. (1) Freedom Lippincott; (2) Jacob Shinn.

Many grandchildren of John and Rebecca Malmsbury emigrated to Ohio and other parts of the new Western territory, following their husbands or being influenced by others, but I am ignorant of their names.

Great-grandfather Caleb Malmsbury was drowned in the Rancocas Creek at Pemberton December 14, 1814, below the little gate or tumbling dam falls. Beulah Jobes Malmsbury, his wife, died of a broken heart January 26, 1817. Both were buried in the Baptist church yard at Pemberton. No list of their children has been found, although there were probably others besides ...

Sarah (my grandmother), b. 1806; d. 1884; m. Jacob Heisler. (See below.)

William, "grandmother's brother and my great-uncle", m. Abigail B. Shinn. 11 children.

John, "another great-uncle," fell into a spring on his farm near Pemberton in 1820, and was drowned. It is believed he had a stroke.

Grandmother Sarah Malmsbury, b. 1806; d. 1884; m. Jacob Heisler. Their children were:

- i Mary (my mother); d. 1884; m. Austin R. Haines in 1842.
- ii Charles
- iii Jacob; kept a grocery store in Pemberton.
- iv George
- v Sarah
- vi William, b. 1842; d. 1915; m. Elizabeth Yard and had two children. He was employed by the Mount Holly National Bank. In 1888, he was chosen cashier of the Manufacturers Bank of Philadelphia, eventually becoming its president.

Two unnamed children, d. soon after birth.

On a separate sheet attached to the manuscript, written in pencil, three names were recorded, but their place in the family -- or indeed, even their family name -- is not indicated:

Ezekiel; b. 1808; d. 1889; m. Lettuce Sexton.

Beulah; b. 1812; d. 1890; m. Joseph C. Hooper.

Grace Ann, b. 1820; d. 1856 at Forked River; m. John Wright.

A LETTER TO JENNY HUNTER

By Lucy Mary Kellogg

Dear Jenny:

When you have one grandfather's Civil War diary, of course you want to learn about your other grandfather's history and add his story. You need to know first where he enlisted and the name of his company. Records for Civil War service are comparatively easy to locate. Almost every state has been industrious in publishing the records of service by its citizens. Example: The Record of Service of Michigan Volunteers in the Civil War, 1861-1865 (46 volumes) with an extra volume indexing more than 85,000 names and records.

Another source might be the records of patriotic organizations such as the G.A.R. (Grand Army of the Republic); Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the U.S.; United Sons of the Confederacy; United Daughters of the Confederacy; Woman's Relief Corps; etc. As Michigan G.A.R. posts were dissolved by the deaths of members, the records went to the state headquarters; next the servicing of these materials fell to the Administrator of the Veterans' Trust Fund; and plans are under way to place these records in the Michigan Historical Commission Archives. What has happened to such records in your state? Also, comb the county histories for local rosters -- even the current files of local newspapers indulging in "centennialism".

If Grandpa lived in a distant state, ask the Adjutant General's office there for his records, as this is the office usually retaining such records. Some states have good indexes to the records and some don't. Some give the information only to proven descendants. Some require a fee and information as to place, time and company of enlistment. But it's worth trying.

When you have determined his particular branch of service, look for a special history of that regiment or army. Look for diaries, letters and personal accounts of others who served there with Grandpa. These are being collected in libraries and archives -- published in many sources, general as well as historical. Of course, for the "official" records you will want to see The War of the Rebellion (Washington, D.C., 1881-1901; 70 volumes) which covers Union army operations very completely with much on Confederate operations as well. The 8 volumes of the 2nd series contain records pertaining to prisoners of war; if Grandpa was ever a prisoner, you'll probably find his name in the index volume, and so be able to learn more.

Was Grandpa disabled and pensioned? The 5-volume Senate Documents List of Pensioners on Roll January 1, 1883 ... (Washington, D.C.) lists them by state, county, and town; gives certificate numbers; names; addresses; causes for which pensioned; monthly rates; and dates of original allowance. The 1862 general pension act restricted aid to those disabled in service; in 1890 the base was broadened; and by 1907 all the soldier had to prove was 60 days' service and 62 years in age. Disabilities included everything from falling off a horse to gunshot wounds, sunstroke, neuralgia, chronic diarrhea and countless others up to "he died".

If Grandpa was a Confederate pensioner, then you will have to go to the individual states. The Genealogical Newsletter for Spring 1957 (v. 3, pp. 5-6) lists the offices in the 13 Confederate states, where you should write for information concerning your Confederate pensioner.

Many folks know that the 1890 census records were burned, but not all know that the special tally of Union veterans and widows for all states after Kansas have been placed on microcopy (Records for the 14 states Alabama-Kansas are not available). 118 rolls give a preliminary list of close to half a million veterans and widows surviving in 1890. Data included the usual name; address; dates of enlistment and discharge; rank; company; regiment (or vessel for a Navy man); disability; and remarks. "Augusta Day, former widow of George Rogers" is a good lead for a Rogers genealogist. One man enlisted as Charles Cook (real name, Karl Koch). You might translate that one, but would you expect Sgt. Wm. Jersey to have been christened Wilbur Schumann? One veteran was "never discharged" but willing to admit it by 1890. If available, this may help you.

Of course, your best hope for family history is a pension record for the soldier, widow or surviving parent. All records for Union veterans are available through the General Services Administration, National Archives, Washington 25, D.C., in photocopy for a dollar. Of three such records just reviewed, one had 30 records from muster rolls, tracing the soldier's movements for 4 years, giving his name, age, address and company -- nothing more. The second supplied the soldier's military history and complete data on occupation, addresses, marriage (including the official record), and children, with "in-law" witnesses and dates of death for both soldier and his widow. The third pensioner, age 93, added data on a former marriage and children in a questionnaire requested by the Pension Office as "it may be of great value to your widow or children." Not to mention grandchildren and future genealogists!

Happy hunting!

"Notes on the Malmsbury (Malsbury) Family of New Jersey" appears on page 171 of this issue of The DSGR Magazine. It is contributed by Mr. Harry C. Shinn, 104 Broad Street, Mount Holly, New Jersey. Mr. Shinn also found and has had printed, "The First Census of Mount Holly" (Northampton Township) in 1709. Forty-one family names and the names of 281 individuals appear in this census. It is suggested that anyone desiring information on the very early residents of Mt. Holly write to Mr. Shinn.

Northampton was one of the 11 original townships in Burlington County. Since many of the records made during the years 1737-1772 were burned, this census assumes great value and importance to genealogists. The last known date of publication of this census was in 1849 and could be examined only at Trenton or Newark or in some library containing the Proceedings of the New Jersey Historical Society. Mr. Shinn obtained a photostat copy, from which he prepared the copy of the census which was published January 5, 1961 in the Mt. Holly Herald, a small weekly of local circulation.

Mr. Shinn has been active in historical and genealogical work for forty years and when he retired five years ago from the advertising department of The Philadelphia Bulletin, he became interested in doing professional genealogical work. He is the author of many published articles, as well as the book, The History of Mount Holly, published in 1960. He is the son of the late Henry Clay Shinn and Sallie Heisler Haines.

TREE TALKS, a new publication of the new Central New York Genealogical Society made its bow in March 1961. The editor is one of our DSGR members, Mrs. Lester F. Myers, Briarcliffe Road, East Syracuse, N.Y. (Dues, $2.00 per year.) This publication plans to publish heretofore unpublished information about Central New York including the counties of Cayuga, Cortland, Madison, Onondaga, and Oswego. Members may submit queries. This society will also abstract on any one person, first grantee and last grantor record, for $1.00. They will also furnish an abstract or other probate papers on any one person for $1.00. The first issue looks most promising and all of us at DSGR wish them the best of success.

Since this is the Centennial Year of the Civil War, many local and county newspapers are printing lists of men who served from their particular localities. Any one wishing to check on ancestors serving during the Civil War may find help by contacting local newspapers in the definite area as to their publications of lists. For instance, THE PETERSBURG OBSERVER (Petersburg, Menard County, Illinois, editor S. L. Shaw) is running two articles on the Civil War. The first, written by James L. Seay, publishes, service records and discharges of all men in Co. E, 85th Illinois Volunteers, plus the part this company played throughout the campaigns of the Civil War. The second article is a series entitled "100 Years Ago" by Lon K. Savage, newspaper man from THE RICHMOND TIMES DISPATCH, who has given a chronological history of the war, plus personalities, excitement, significance and tragedy of the War and its campaigns.

"The Old City Hall and History" (Detroit, Michigan), a booklet written by our own Haviland F. Reeves, has just gone to press. Congratulations, sir!

The Miller Genealogical Messenger-Records, "History of the Miller and Collateral Families to Engender Pride", (published by Col. Edward T. Miller, 863 Simpson Street, Plymouth, Michigan) wants to hear from persons who can trace back their ancestry to any one or more of the nine sons of Christopher Miller, b. 1709/10 Germany, m. Barbara _____, landed Philadelphia, Pa., 1715.

Remember that Pilot Package of charts I told you about last time? The "Start with a Chart" sheet of instructions and helpful hints is worth half the cost of the Package in itself, and all those charts and family record sheets besides. Why not surprise some of your family and get them started up the family tree, by sending an order to our Corresponding Secretary?

SAMUEL COMAN, PIONEER TO HILLSDALE COUNTY, MICHIGAN

Samuel Coman, born 4 January 1774 at Providence, Rhode Island, settled in Wright Township, Hillsdale County, Michigan about 1836. He was a grandson of Richard and Sarah (Angell) Coman of Providence, R. I. and a son of Stephen and Alice (Winsor) Coman also of Providence. Alice (Winsor) Coman died 9 Jan. 1785 and Samuel's father, Stephen Coman, married second, 17 Feb. 1786 at Dudley, Mass., Sabra Felcher (Felshaw?) a widow from Kellingley, Connecticut. Stephen Coman's death is recorded 16 Nov. 1790 at Dudley, Mass., and on 10 Jan. 1792, his widow, Sabra (Felcher) Coman married Brigadier General Salem Towne. They raised the Coman children to adulthood.

In 1796, three of Samuel's brothers--Winsor, Zeba, and Benjamin Coman--migrated to New York state and settled in Eaton Township, Madison County. Samuel followed about 1800 and settled on a homestead near Eaton village in Madison County. On 23 Jan. 1801, he married Lydia (Legia) Palmer, b. Leyden, Franklin Co., Mass., 23 Jan. 1783. This compiler would like to prove Lydia's parentage. Was she the daughter of Humphrey Palmer and his wife, Sarah Wilcox of Little Compton, R. I.? Humphrey Palmer and his son John were at Eaton, Madison Co., N. Y. in 1796 and settled on a homestead near the farm which later belonged to Samuel Coman. Samuel and Lydia (Palmer) Coman had a family of thirteen children, all born in Madison Co., New York: (1) Russell, b. 1802; m. Anne McMath; (2) Curtis, b. 1804; m. Diana Lyons; (3) Charlotte, b. 1806; m. Reuben Rich. (4) Anne, b. 1808; m. Hiram Lucas; (5) Sarah, b. 1810; m. --- Carns; (6) Matilda, b. 1812; m. Rev. William Dean--both missionaries to China; (7) Philena, b. 1814; m. ---Hall, a son of Highland Hall; (8) Lydia, b. 1816; (9) Orpha, b. 1818; m. Laurence Rhubottom; (10) Samuel, Jr., b. 1820; m. Jane ---; (11) Stephen, b. 1822; m. Amelia Belden; (12) William, b. 1825; and (13) Francis W., b. 1829; died in the Civil War.

About 1825, Russell Coman, the eldest child, and a young man whose name is unknown, built a flat-bottom boat which they mounted on a Hoosier wagon bed, and with a team of oxen traveled overland to the head-waters of the Ohio River. There they launched the boat loaded with their possessions and floated down the Ohio to its confluence with the Miami River, where they landed at Lawrenceburg, Indiana. Russell Coman bought land at Manchester, Dearborn Co., Indiana and operated a small foundry there, farmed and traded as far south as New Orleans. In 1829, Russell married Anne McMath, b. Huntingdon Co., Pa., 17 Nov. 1810, a daughter of Samuel and Jane (Likely) McMath, pioneers to Indiana from Pennsylvania in 1816-17. Russell and Anne (McMath) Coman had nine children, the three eldest born in Dearborn Co., Indiana and the others born in Hillsdale Co., Mich.: (1) Samuel M., b. 1830; unmar.; (2) Lydia Jane, b. 1832; m. Daniel Synder; (3) Anne Matilda, b. 1834; d. an infant; (4) Marion, b. 1837; m. Harrison Dayton; (5) Caroline, b. 1839; m. Elijah Zeigler; (6) Ann Maria, b. 1842; d. 1854; (7) Charlotte, b. 1844; m. 1st, Samuel Van de Voort, and 2nd, ---Gibbs; (8) William W., b. 1847; m. Frances Campbell; and (9) Fenton, b. 1849; m. Malvina (Vine) Cody.

Ann Coman, Samuel's daughter, who had married Hiram Lucas moved with her husband to a farm near Adrian, Lenawee Co., Michigan. Ann Lucas wrote her father of the beauties of her new home and urged him to come to Michigan to take up land. Samuel Coman wrote his son, Russell in Indiana, and as a result, Samuel Coman the father, with two of his younger sons, Curtis and Samuel, Jr., met with Russell in September 1835 in Wright Township, Hillsdale Co., Michigan. They chose land and recorded their claims at Monroe. Each returned to his own home to make preparations for the move to Michigan. Russell arrived in Wright Township with his wife, Ann, and three children late in 1835. While his wife and children stayed at the Lucas home in Adrian, Russell built a log house on his land and the family moved into it between Christmas 1835 and New Years 1836.

Samuel Coman, the father followed soon after and he, as well as his sons, built their homes in the wilderness of Michigan's Hillsdale County. Many of the Coman family are buried in the Prattville Cemetery.

The contributor is a descendant of Russell Coman's daughter, Lydia Jane, who married Daniel Synder. Any information which would add to this family sketch and which would help to prove the parentage of LYDIA PALMER, wife of Samuel Coman, Sr., would be much appreciated. Correspondence is invited by Mrs. M. A. Price, 4675 Normandie Place, La Mesa, California.

REPORT OF MEETINGS

Roy E. McFee

The audience of January 14 came anticipating the main talk illustrated with color film, and the customary opening talk on resources of the Burton Historical Collection. Miss Irene Dudley of the Burton staff spoke for that department, bringing thirteen books with her.

Then followed the talk, "Renaissance of a City," by Mr. Frank Firmschild, of the Detroit Edison Company. Films flashed maps and photographs upon the screen, all in helpful colors.

In 1701 Antoine de La Mothe Cadillac founded Detroit in the region of the Great Lakes, on the bank of a river a half mile wide, and bounded by forests. Detroit was to know French and British flags before our own, then was to become an industrial giant. Fifteen years ago the city made a new master plan. This rebuilding is the renaissance explained by Mr. Firmschild.

The speaker said: "Of the five largest cities in our nation, only Detroit has a comprehensive, officially approved master plan. We are rebuilding to a pattern that goes beyond anything done in Europe or America in the past fifty years. 8000 acres of our city are under reconstruction, and changes are taking place every day."

Work began on expressways. The Lodge and Ford are completed, and construction follows on the Lodge Extension, Chrysler and Southfield. Later will come the Jeffries and Fisher. Altogether there will be 162 miles of expressways, to make Detroit a truly accessible city.

A Civic Center has been built, to include a riverside drive, Veterans Memorial Building, Ford Auditorium, City-County Building, and the combined Convention Arena and Cobo Hall. Old Mariners' Church has been perpetuated by relocation somewhat eastward, with landscaping.

The Cultural Center now consists of Detroit Main Library, Detroit Institute of Arts, Detroit Historical Museum, International Institute, and Rackham Building. Plans call for a Science Museum, Planetarium, and Hall of Man. Two new wings are being added to the Library.

Wayne State University, with its 100-acre campus adjacent to the Cultural Center, already has 20,000 students. Its beautiful new McGregor Memorial Building is a scholarly center for campus groups and other gatherings. The University plans to expand its Medical School.

Likewise, the University of Detroit has been building extensively, and will probably add a new Dental School, while Marygrove College has its own program to cost $3,000,000.

Just southeast of the Cultural Center a new Medical Center has been approved by the Federal Government. It will comprise 235 acres. The plan calls for north and south medical campus, with housing for nurses, interns, and resident physicians -- also the aged.

As expected, these city projects are also inspiring huge investments of private capital.

The prospect of a panel discussion, with other features, filled every seat for the meeting of February 11. The usual talk on the Burton Historical Collection was by Mr. Garnett McCoy, Curator of Manuscripts. He mentioned briefly the eight books which he had on the table.

Mrs. Raymond Millbrook, Moderator, then opened the panel discussion on "Church Records." She complimented the nine panel members on their accepting invitations to take part. She explained that they were helping, not necessarily because they think they are experts, but because they have had some experience with church records. Concern was to be primarily with records before 1800. Each speaker had chosen a particular denomination for his subject.

Mrs. Ida Kennings was introduced as a teacher and former Corresponding Secretary of the Society. She spoke on Quaker records, which have been kept from the beginning, but can be baffling. The material important to us is found in the records of the Monthly Meetings. Their marriage records are especially complete and helpful. Most clerks were conscientious, but some were lax. So the absence of a name does not mean that it should not be written there.

Deaconess Ruth H. Colby spoke on the Protestant Episcopal Church. Her uniform shows that she is giving her life in its service. This church is a continuation of the Church of England, which was early planted here by Great Britain -- especially in the southern settlements. The Episcopal Church has kept records which are complete and in great detail, about members of the parishes. Most of these records are still in the hands of the rectors of the various parishes.

Mr. Peter W. Starring, Program Chairman who had promoted this panel discussion, spoke on the Reformed Church in America. As Reformed Dutch Church, it was long dominant in New York City and Hudson River Valley, and shared the Mohawk Valley with the Lutheran Church. Royden W. Vosburgh has transcribed 101 volumes of typed sheets of Protestant records from 17 counties of New York State. These are on 13 reels of microfilm at the Burton Historical Collection.

Mrs. James D. McGlynn, a professional genealogist, was introduced as "a long time member, who has turned more pages, taken more notes, and filed more records than anybody else in the Society." Catholic records are usually with the rector of the church. They include much information, even maiden names of mothers. The earliest records are at St. Augustine and still available. St. Anne's in Detroit has the second oldest Catholic records in this country.

Mr. Marion S. Harlan was introduced as a lawyer, who therefore knows how to study records. He spoke on Presbyterian records. The first Presbyterian Church in this country is said to be the Rehoboth Church in Maryland, organized about 1684. Centers of records are the Presbyterian Church at Montreat, N. C., and the Presbyterian Historical Society, Philadelphia. Presbyterian and Congregational records are closely associated, often referring to the same person.

The next speaker was Mrs. Celia Freiberg, a teacher in Wyandotte, Michigan, who talked on Baptist records. The Baptist Church in America was founded by Roger Williams at Providence, R. I., in 1639. It is today one of the main Protestant churches. Each Baptist Church is self-governing, and practices vary in record keeping. Records are seldom indexed. The admissions and dismissals can be embarrassing, but still prove to be helpful records.

We heard next Mr. Francis L. Watkins, introduced as a genuine New Englander. He is a native of Salem, Massachusetts. The Congregational Church was brought to America by the Mayflower Pilgrims, and the second Congregational Church was founded in Salem in 1629. The Congregational religion was the state religion in New England as late as 1833. Many records were therefore kept from earliest settlements, and an example thus set for all of America.

Mr. L. Arthur Waber, a civil engineer, was called on to give a change of pace by telling of his recent trip to Europe. He was in Paris, Switzerland, Holland, England and Scotland, but spent most time in Germany. There he found the Wabers in church records back to 1713, and also in current telephone directories. He met some from the latter, but they spoke only German and he only English. He said, "It is difficult to have a sign language for genealogy."

We next heard Miss Kathryn Mary Lancaster, a teacher in Wyandotte. Although one of our very newest members, she had accepted an active role at once. She spoke on the Methodist Church, which began in America with a group from Ireland in 1760. There are few Methodist archives, the records being found usually at the local church. She emphasized the earlier idea of Mrs. Millbrook, that church records should be sought first in the ancestral church.

For lack of time Mrs. Millbrook renounced her own plan to speak on Pennsylvania churches, but said she would help anyone personally. She ended the program by explaining that the basis of the panel had been the book, A Survey of American Church Records, by E. Kay Kirkham.

The auditorium again was alert for the meeting of March 11. Mrs. Alice Dalligan, of the Burton staff, spoke on five books brought to the table. One was The Kennedy Family, by Joseph F. Dinneen, it being the story of President John F. Kennedy's family in America.

Mr. Charles R. Starring, Professor of History at Western Michigan University, spoke on the book, The Bark Covered House, by William Nowlin. He held up a rare volume of the first edition, loaned by Burton Historical Collection for the occasion. He explained, however, that his talk was based on Dr. Milo M. Quaife's historical introduction to the edition of 1937.

The importance of the book is in its portrayal of pioneer life in Michigan. It tells the experiences of a particular family which came from the East to create fertile farms from virgin forest. Except for the central drama of adventure, it is all about commonplace happenings. The story is related in simple language by a writer with little schooling, but who loved Nature and had been an actor in the very events reported. This gives the book a good literary style. A sophisticated writer would have been out of place in a book like this. Incidentally, Dr. Quaife thinks that William Nowlin's sister Betsey had a hand in the actual composition.

The book was really written in honor of their parents, John Nowlin and Melinda Light. This couple moved with children from the Hudson River Valley, arriving in Michigan in 1834. They had already bought eighty acres south of Dearborn, near the crossing of Monroe Boulevard and Van Born Road. Here the bark covered house was built, with black ash bark for roofing. A better house was built soon, and finally a brick house, to be named "Nowlin Castle."

William Nowlin, the son, was much like the father. He too was a large and powerful man, being more than six feet tall and weighing well over two hundred pounds. He thus used his bulk and strength to advantage on the farm. He was honest and kind, and wore a natural dignity. Altogether he was respected as a successful and influential man, and fine neighbor and citizen.

In the winter of 1875-1876, when William Nowlin owned four hundred acres, the coming centennial of American independence increased interest in history. It was then that he withdrew from all farm tasks for several months, and worked on this record of pioneer days, with his own parents as chief characters. Apparently the book was written originally for family and friends alone, after which they urged that it be published -- which was done.

John Nowlin died in 1869 and his wife in 1873. They are buried in the Nowlin family cemetery, at a beautiful spot on the Nowlin land. Two tall stones tell their names and the dates, and mark, in the words of the historian Quaife, "the end of the emigrant trail."

NOTES AND NEWS

All the members of DSGR joined in hearty and sincere congratulations and shared the pride of other Detroiters when FRANCIS WARING ROBINSON of the Detroit Institute of Arts was decorated by the King of the Belgians for the work done by Mr. Robinson in helping to assemble the art objects and to stage the outstanding exhibit, "Flanders in the Fifteenth Century," in Brussels and here in Detroit last year. Mr. Felix Standaert, Consul-General of Belgium, came to Detroit from Chicago early in April to conduct the ceremony in Belgian Hall, whereby the King conferred upon Mr. Robinson the honor of Knighthood of the Order of the Crown of Belgium.

Among the unpublished manuscripts from the Institute of American Genealogy now being offered for sale by The Genealogical Book Company of Baltimore, we found friends: 11 pages of Blount material by GEORGE BLOUNT (price $10.00) and 26 pages of Davis material by FRANCES DAVIS McTEER ($15.00). ... Another friend we were glad to see again: MRS. BERNICE SPRENGER, back in Burton as Assistant Chief, replacing MISS HELEN ELLIS, who retired last fall ... Among our new members we have been happy to welcome several from the Genealogy course on Wayne Campus -- and also two members who are busy pursuing their formal education, one at Wayne and one in high school: Messrs. BEN HENRY and NEIL JOHNSON. Oh, if we had only been lucky enough to get such an early start! ... And charts received from new members LILLIE, PRICHARD, PEEBLES and SCHMIDT prove that they are getting a good start too.

Do you remember MRS. ELIZABETH R. HARDING's offer (Fall 1960 issue, p. 39) to help some of us "inlanders" with research in the Connecticut State Library? Here's the heart-warming sequel from MRS. JOHN C. KREGER of Flat Rock: "She worked like a Trojan for me, and found information on my Brooks line for which I've been searching for years! ... I was able to find a very old Bible record (back to the 1700's on a Dinsmore family) for MRS. BECK in Manitou Beach through my uncle in Portland, in response to her query, so it seems to be reciprocal affair on these queries." ... Never give up hope! Only last month there were two Strobe replies to FRANCES McTEER's "Is This Your Line?" presentation published almost five years ago in the Fall 1956 DSGR Magazine. One was a recognizable cousin in an unrepresented branch. ... And MRS. CELIA FLEMING says she has data on William Penland, b. 1813, as well as on Andrew Penland, b. 1807, living successively in North Carolina; Preble Co., Ohio; Cass Co., Mich.; and Marion Co., Iowa, her own ancestor.

Heartfelt sympathy is extended, on behalf of all the members of our Society, to the families of ... MRS. R. W. BUHRMASTER of Downer's Grove, Illinois, who passed away last November ... MRS. DAVID H. R. PAGE, wife of our ex-president, who suffered a fatal heart attack in February. Mrs. Page was a former member of DSGR, when she was teaching in Detroit ... MRS. HARRY S. BEAUMONT of 4400 Duck Lake Road, Highland, Michigan, who died February 9th after an illness of five years. Mrs. Beaumont had been blind for some time, but members of her family read the magazine to her and she was up-to-date on DSGR affairs. Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont celebrated a 60th wedding anniversary last New Year's Day. ... and ROGER BROOKS WILLIAMS of 180 Parkhurst, Detroit 3, who died suddenly in April. His wife, Amy Mooers Williams, is our member and one of the authors of "Descendants of Edmund Mooers of Newbury, Mass.," published in 1958.

Recent activities reported by or about some of our members include ... MRS. JESSE C. HARPER of Sitka, Kansas, who is serving on the board and magazine staff for the Southwest Kansas Genealogical Society ... ESTHER WEYGANDT POWELL of "Ohio Records and Pioneer Families" sent us a clipping about an indenture signed by President Andrew Jackson for 80 acres of land purchased in 1832 in Detroit, the deed being discovered in an Akron attic ... WILLARD C. HEISS of Indianapolis who spoke on "The Use of Quaker Records" at the 11th Indiana History Workshop in April ... and INEZ WALDENMATER of Washington, D.C., who has recovered her health sufficiently that plans for discontinuing "The Genealogical Newsletter" have been abandoned and she hoped that the G.N. will "go on and on" -- and so do we!

Travels completed or plans announced for the summer include MR. and MRS. ARTHUR BOOTH to Europe for an extended trip this summer ... Mmes. KENNINGS and HARMISON in Ohio, Tennessee and Kentucky during their spring vacation ... the CAMERONS (and probably others) to Cooperstown for the Seminars ... VIRGINIA EVERHAM in California before this Magazine gets there.

Wars may end but pensions go on and on. Did you know that the last pension payment for the Revolutionary War was in 1906 ... for the War of 1812 in 1946 ... and that more than 3000 widows and 650 children of Civil War veterans are still drawing pensions according to the U.S. Veterans' Administration? and over 1100 Confederate widows as of January 1960? And on the Civil War, here's a postscript for Jenny Hunter about Michigan men in that war: "A unique, primary source of information relating to military personnel, orders, military organization and services of Michigan regiments is available in RG 59-14, Records of the Michigan Military Establishment. Abstracts of individual service records may be obtained by personal examination or mail requests to the Michigan Historical Commission Archives, State Records Center, Dewitt Road, Lansing." Lmk
